

TRANSIENT STUDENT ADMISSION

Persons who are in good standing in a graduate degree program at another university may be admitted as transient students at Kent State University to take coursework which may apply to their degree program.

Transient students are admitted for one semester only. At the end of the semester for which a transient student is admitted the admission will be inactivated. The student may register in subsequent semesters upon submission of a new Transient Student Application Form.